Matthew Breden Dead.—J. Matthew Breden, for 25 years a resident of Santa Fe, died Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock of Bright's disease. Deceased was a native of Mayfield, Kentucky, and 66 years of age, and for the past fifteen years has been engaged in mining. "Mat" Breden, as he was known by all of his friends, came to New Mexico in 1868 from Decatur, Illinois, with the late General Gustavus Adolphus Smith, who had been appointed internal revenue collector for New Mexico and Arizona. They drove overland from Westport, Missouri to Santa Fe. The funeral took place this afternoon from the residence of his nephew, Dr. J. H. Sloan of Cathedral Place, Santa Fe, and interment was made in Fairview Cemetery. Rev. W. A. Cooper of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated.

Driven, no doubt, by the necessity engendered by the drought, sundry small boys who have burros to keep are engaged in heroic methods of providing sustenance for their beasts. There is quite a growth of alfalfa in Lincoln park. The park commissioners have in times past resorted to many ways of getting rid of this product that blue grass might thrive. They have never been successful, but their difficulties are over. The small boys are plucking out the hardy plant by the roots to provide food for their burros.

The band concert in the plaza was delayed for the reason that when the boys attempted at Cavalry hall to take their instruments it was found that the tuba had been damaged by some malicious person forcing one of the keys or pistons into the horn so that it was ruined for playing. This valuable instrument will need to be sent to New York for repair at a considerable cost and great inconvenience to the band. The perpetrator of the mischief if discovered will have to pay dearly for it. There will be no plaza concert tomorrow because of this.

As Mr. Hunter, a young man not yet 21 years of age, was fitted for the work he is now engaged in exclusively at the school, the aptness of the illustration cannot be gainsaid.
